Winter Sports Begin at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 4.—The most pretentious program of winter sports in the history of this resort was ushered in today with the opening of the ninth annual December golf tournaments on the links of the Pinehurst Country Club. From now until the middle of April there will be a succession of golf, tennis and shooting tournaments in which noted experts from many sections of the country are expected to take part. As usual, the most notable events on the golf calendar will be the St. Valentine's tournaments in February and the United North and South championship competitions in March.

ARMISTICE SIGNED BY FOUR POWERS

Constantinople, Dec. 3, 10:40 p. m.—It is officially announced that an armistice has been signed between Turkey and Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro.

Apparently Greece has not signed. Another conference of the plenipotentiaries was held in the evening after the receipt of the fresh instructions from the Porte. At the conclusion of this conference the armistice protocol was signed.

The fact that Greece is not among the signatories is interpreted as meaning hostilities will be continued between that state and Turkey and there is considerable speculation as to what will become of the alliance agreement between the Balkan states.

It has not been determined when and where the peace negotiations will begin.

Christmas Island to Be Sold.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 4.—According to advices from Honolulu a German syndicate of coal manipulators will tomorrow come into absolute possession of Christmas Island, which it is the intention of the syndicate to convert into a coal station for the supply of the Pacific trade. The island has long been the property of the well known South Seas Greig family, whose principal residence is in this city. In view of the steadily growing American interests in the Pacific a question has been raised as to whether Washington will be likely to take official cognizance of the sale of the island, inasmuch as it is to be acquired by a foreign corporation and likely to be wholly under foreign management.

JACK SNEED IS ACQUITTED

ATTORNEYS FINED FOR MAKING DEMONSTRATION WHEN VERDICT IS RENDERED.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 3.—J. Beal Sneed was today found not guilty of the murder of Captain Al G. Boyce.

The demonstration by Sneed and his attorneys over the verdict was dramatic. Walter Scott and W. P. McLean Jr., attorney for the defense, were fined for throwing their hats over the chandeliers. Sneed emitted a cowboy yell, but the court refused to censure him or to fine him.

Mrs. Sneed awaited the verdict in seclusion in a downtown hotel. Sneed telephoned the news to her.

John Beal Sneed shot Captain A. G. Boyce to death on January 13, 1912, in Fort Worth, soon after Sneed had returned from Winnipeg, Canada, with his wife, with whom Al Boyce, Jr., son of Captain Boyce, had eloped. Boyce was sitting in a hotel lobby when Sneed entered and almost immediately shot him. Captain Boyce was unarmed. Sneed claimed self-defense and a conspiracy of Boyce's to rob him of his wife.

Al Boyce, Jr., was killed by Sneed in Amarillo September 14 last. Sneed will be tried for this in February at Vernon.

The two killings have been probably the most notable in the history of Texas criminal law. The families involved are very wealthy and have played prominent parts in the upbuilding of Texas. After the elopement Sneed spent $2,000 in a chase across the continent to find his wife.

The first trial of Sneed for killing Captain Boyce was held last winter here and the jury disagreed.

Sneed's relatives today denied that

GOVERNOR SUBMITS BUT FEW NAMES

Oklahoma City, Ok., Dec. 3.—Gov. Cruce's message, which was read before the senate in executive session this afternoon, carried a surprise for the members in that the only nominations presented were the new members of the State Board of Education, and five District Judges appointed during vacation. Gov. Cruce said that he would present the other nominations at another time, probably tomorrow, but that for the present the message would give the senate a working basis.

Reading of executive messages in executive session, from which the public is excluded, is contrary to the usual rule. In all legislative bodies the messages are repeated in the open and the confirming done in secret. The latter is to afford Senators opportunity for free discussion of the merits and demerits of appointees without fear of public review of what is said. As soon as the committee, composed of Senators McMechan, McClinic and Briggs, which informed the governor the senate was ready for business, returned to the chamber, accompanied by Mr. Amos, the governor's private secretary, bearing the message, the public was excluded under the executive session rule, and the

"SNOWBIRDS"

For some years Pottawatomie county has had a county seat fight on its hands. It is to be finally settled at an election to be held February 5 at which time the claims of Shawnee and Tecumseh will be threshed out by the voters.

The Muskogee Times, under the guidance of Col. Clarence B. Douglas, now appears as a daily, and a live one at that. It will give Muskogee some splendid advertising for Col. Douglas has always been a live wire in the journalistic field and a booster for Muskogee without a peer.

President Taft is sending hundreds of nominations to the senate, evidently with the idea of keeping the republicans at the pie counter as long as possible. However, the Democratic senators will likely prevent the confirmation of any of the bunch until President Wilson sends in a few of his own.

The governor of South Carolina says he will pardon any man convicted of lynching a negro who assaults a white woman. Such a declaration may bring him a little cheap notoriety, but it was entirely unnecessary, for history does not record an instance where a Southern governor ever had a chance to either pardon or refuse to pardon one in a case of the kind. It never goes that far.

FROM THE EAST, LIGHT; AND DISEASE AND DEATH

Ex oriente lux has long been an adage emphasized by those whose education or habits of thought were more or less derived from Eastern sources. That the sun's lighting comes from the East is an accident of the earth's direction of rotation; and that from the Orient first came the semi-civilized races to start a better civilization in the Occidental world is also due to another "accident"—that of climate, which allowed man to rise out of savagery. The half-way house, as it were, of the migrating Oriental was the Mediterranean semi-civilization, which bore within its blood the germs of its own death, and which was illustrated in the fall of the Roman Empire.

The heart of orientalism is belief in the supremacy of fate, which can not be withstood or surmounted. This implies slavery to disease and death. The oriental supinely accepts disease, even when plainly due to his own sin and recklessness or when easily obviable or curable, as the unalterable law of fate, either as punishment for spiritual sin or as the vindictiveness and tyranny of his irresponsible and unseen rulers. A contradictory attitude characterizes the Occidental point of view. Disease and premature death are not the result of fate, but may be prevented or cured. The history of medicine and of diseases everywhere demonstrates this truth. The best illustration is the marvelous statistical record of suddenly occidentalized Japan in her late war with regard to the death rate of her soldiers.

Compare that with the reports of the Turkish condition in Constantinople. This city of over a million inhabitants, is sewerless and so insanitary that the banished "street scavengers," the dogs, would have partly prevented the present unspeak-

"This is My 51st Birthday"—Lillian Russell.

Lillian Russell, noted as actress and light opera singer, was born in Clinton, Iowa, Dec. 4, 1861. Her maiden name was Helen Louise Leonard and she was educated in a convent school in Chicago, in which city her father was engaged in the printing business. She made her debut in 1879 as a member of Pinafora company. For several years thereafter she was a popular singer of ballads in Tony Pastor's Theatre in New York. Fame came to her when she joined the McCaul Opera company, of which she continued as prima donna until the organization of her own company. Of late years the former opera singer has achieved her greatest successes as a member of Weber and Fields aggregation. Miss Russell has been

THE POOREST OF ALL PEOPLE

Natives of the Arctic Who Have Enough to Eat Are Considered Very Fortunate.

I have not known so poor a winter during the whole of my stay among the Eskimos (now 22 years), says a writer in the Christian Herald. While the coast is ice-bound, the days short, snowstorms frequent and the thermometer often 40 degrees below zero, it is not possible for the Eskimo to do much to secure a living. One way for the women to produce something was to cut holes through the sea ice, which reaches a thickness of six feet, and there they stood fishing for rock cod, most days securing only between five and ten fish. The mission endeavored to help, but poverty was so general that all resources were taxed to the utmost.

An outsider has no idea of what poverty among the Eskimos means.

At the best of times the wants of an

Eskimo are few and his food consists of the coarsest of substances.

Seal walrus and whale meat form a large part of their diet, and the blubber of these animals serves in the place of pork or butter.

In China the famished inhabitants subsisted on roots or some inferior vegetation, but here the vegetable kingdom has nothing to offer. The earth is frozen and deeply covered with snow and ice; the birds have gone south and one might walk for miles without seeing a living creature.

At the same time it is of interest to know even these primitive people have for ages found a kind of substitute for food somewhere.

Along the beach, which is known to have plenty of seaweed, holes are cut through the thick ice and the seaweed and mussels pulled up through the holes, and it is on record that the Eskimos have sustained life on this, one might say, refuse of the sea, during the long winter months.

The Eskimo has no word for "God."

Treatment of Peach Seed.
Peach seed have such a hard seed case that they will not germinate readily if planted in the spring without any previous treatment. The common way of treating such seed, where not planted in the fall, is to stratify them and expose them to the weather during the winter.

Stratification consists in taking a box, with holes in the bottom, putting in a layer of sand, a layer of seed, D. C. Mooring.

Owing to the rainy weather this week, cotton has been a very scarce article in Ada. However, the season's receipts now total 9,899 bales. The yard receipts are 8,667, and the round bale gin has turned out 2,444 which counted as half bales is the equivalent of 1,222 square bales.

This amount, together with what the gins have stored will make a grand total of 10,000 or a little better already received in Ada.

BULL MOOSERS OPPOSED TO ANY FORM OF FUSION

Oklahoma City, Dec. 4.—The Oklahoma City Bull Moose club is not in favor of any coalition with the Republicans, that is, unless the Republicans, wish to progress. They are not only anxious for Jim Harris, Arthur Geissler and other citizens of Oklahoma to know it, but, in the language of a resolution adopted at the Monday night meeting, "it is the desire of this club that its attitude in regard to this proposition be known, not only to all citizens of this city, count yand state, but the entire citizenship of this great nation as well."

The resolution was introduced by Fred E. Suits and there was considerable opposition to its wording, Grant Stanley and E. I. Leach both offering substitutes, but after an hour of oratory the Suits resolution, slapping the old Republican party on the wrist, was adopted.

It was also decided by the thirty members of the club present that a full city ticket should be put out at the next election, and city, county and state tickets at the various elections thereafter. All who spoke agreed that they did not wish any fusion with either of the old parties. A committee was also appointed to draft resolutions of sympathy for Alva L. McDonald, state chairman of the Progressive party, who is now under arrest in El Reno, over the accidental killing of a man.

The Cambridge players will appear at the Lyceum this evening. This is one of the splendid lyceum numbers in the course being run this season and deserves the liberal patronage of the Ada public, for all profits on the course will be applied to the liquidation of the debt incurred in fighting the Akin bill.

MODERN CASH GROCERY

118 East Main Street

Center-Lanham Happenings.

Mrs. Belton Parker and baby Violet returned home Monday from a two weeks stay with relatives in Arkansas. Mr. Townsley and family left Monday, in search of a new home in California. We hope this family will find their expectations, and be well pleased with their new environments.

The Thanksgiving program and box supper was a success. Fine proof of a good corps of teachers and better still, excellent proof of a good corps of school children. A cake was auctioned off for the prettiest girl, Miss Bertha Sanders winning the merit.

A pie was sold for the ugliest man. Mr. Will Peck being the recipient. Total receipts $46. Proceeds to apply on school fixtures.

Mrs. Henry Collins and children of North Ada spent Thanksgiving evening with Mrs. Gaar and family returning home Friday.

Miss Lucie Parker left Sunday for Parish Chappel to begin her winter term of school. We will indeed be glad when our young teachers, and those preparing themselves for teachers attending the normal return for it takes several of our best Sunday school workers and we feel their absence.

Mr. Griffith attended the land sale Friday, and was fortunate to get 160 acres of land in the Lightning Ridge community. Miss Garnet Griffith who accompanied her father to Ada attended the teachers' meeting.

Prof. McClain, Misses Erba McCulloch, Ethel Gaar and Susie Parker attended the teachers' meeting.

The Ladies' Aid Society was represented in Mrs. Walpole's home Thursday, where they spent the day quilting. Any one needing a good substantial covering, also rag carpets, will do well to place your order with this society. Regular meetings Saturday before 3rd Sunday in each month at Center.

Mr. Charley Erwin attended land sale and secured some pasture land also Mr. Bill Standridge and added a few more acres to his already enclosed.

Miss Gloria McCulloch of Stratford is visiting her many friends since Thanksgiving.

Uncle Sam Dame and children left Saturday to find a new home in California. We trust these worthy people will meet success.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis have been visiting in the home of their brother, W. A. Thompson during and since the death of Mrs. Thompson.

On Nov. 29, 1912, Mrs. Mattie L. Thompson's soul was wafted away to that home prepared by Him who doeth all things well. She was born Nov. 12, 1885, near Albertville, Ala. She was the daughter of Mr. W. C. Goodwin who was a good and pious man. The deceased was converted and joined the Missionary Baptist church at Rock Springs, Ala., at the age of 12 years, and has ever been a devout Christian. She was married to W. A. Thompson April 10th, 1901, and to their union six children were born, five boys and one girl, Gracie Lucile, who was buried at Center, June 3rd, 1912, just six months before her mother.

The youngest child surviving died three weeks. Together with her husband she joined the Baptist church at Center, April, 1909. She was also a member of the Ladies' Missionary Society in which we will miss her, and join in the following exercises.

The Infinite God of the universe having called from the duties and activities of life our sister in Christ, Mrs. W. A. Thompson in token of our loss we adopt the following expressions of esteem:

Mrs. Thompson was a true Christian and was therefore a good neighbor, a tender, loving wife and mother. She was ever kind, considerate and courteous in her treatment of others and always had a good word for those with whom she came in contact. She was always faithful in her duties and relations of life she there-

HOW TO RESIST

Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cold is to build up your run down condition again?

Mrs. Olivia Parham of East Durham, N. C., says: "I took Vinol for a chronic cough which had lasted two years and the cough not only disappeared, but it built up my strength as well."

SECRETARY MAHAN

IS WELL PLEASED

The following self-explanatory letter from I. S. Mahan, secretary of the state fair, was received some days ago by T. O. Collins. It contains some timely suggestions that should be heeded by the boosters of Pontotoc county. Says Mr. Mahan:

Mr. T. O. Collins, Ada, Okla.

My Dear Sir:—After the immense amount of work involved in closing the business of the Sixth Annual Oklahoma State Fair and Exposition, I am writing you regarding a matter which, I believe, is of interest to the people of Ada and of Pontotoc county.

The county collective exhibits in the agricultural building probably attracted more attention from visitors to the fair than any other exhibit on the Fair grounds.

Very few state fair visitors realized the immense amount of work entailed in making these finished exhibits. It requires weeks and months of work on the part of individuals in order that these exhibits may be obtained and installed and in this connection I want to thank you on behalf of the directors of our association for the magnificent work done by you in this respect. You not only seemed to appreciate the work to be done but you did not stop in your work until it was completed. Your efforts in securing suggestions for the county collective exhibitor's association was not only appreciated by them but by our association and through such co-operation, this department of the fair is bound to become its leading feature.

Again thanking you for your co-operation and interest in the fair and trusting you will be with us in 1913 with an exhibit from Pontotoc county, I am very truly yours,

J. S. MAHAN, Secretary.

Study of Housing Problems.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 4.—Sociologists, health officers and civic welfare workers from many cities gathered here today to attend the second National Conference on housing in America, which concludes its sessions Friday. Questions relating to health and sanitation, overcrowding in lodging houses, workingmen's houses and their financing, the planning and building of garden cities, and the work of teaching the housing gospel to newly arrived immigrants are among the subjects for discussion by the members.

EDNA'S BURGLAR WAS NOT A REAL ROBBER

By MOLLY McMaster.

Edna sat up and listened. Her heart was beating with almost breathless rapidity from having been awaked from sound sleep. It was the third time during the night that she sat up to listen, and as she sank back at this hour of three in the morning she told herself it was only the strangeness of an unfamiliar room that kept her so keenly alive to sounds.

She closed her eyes but opened them again. Surely some one was just outside her window! The sound came from below as if the intruder were attempting to climb up the great vine that covered the side of the house.

Edna became strangely calm. She stepped from her bed, and in the darkness slipped on her pink silk hose and satin slippers that she had left carelessly lying after an evening of dancing. Then she drew on her dainty pink tea gown.

Edna went cautiously toward the window and peeped through the mass of vines that clustered about the window frame. Her heart fluttered. A man was making his way slowly and by painful stages to her window.

She paused a moment wondering whether to wait until he reached the top and fell him with a chair or to throw something weighty down on his unsuspecting head.

Edna chose the latter method. She turned in the dark and by light of a pale moonbeam caught sight of the great water jug on the stand.

"That would certainly kill him," she told herself with a shudder. "I can not possibly do that." She would empty the contents of the jug on that ascending head.

The man was several yards from the ground; for a second Edna hesitated. Perhaps even then the fall might prove fatal.

"But I can not be murdered in my bed." She shuddered again and with a burst of courage leaned far out of the window and spilled the water with sure aim on the burglar's head!

She heard a muttered remark, a heavy thud and the pitcher dropped from her nerveless fingers. Her courage completely gone, Edna did her first feminine act of her escapade: she dropped in a heap just within the window.

The man, suddenly foiled in his ascent, picked himself up with many short and terse words falling from his lips. He shook himself like a shaggy terrier, but he was drenched to the skin.

Looking up to see the cause of his downfall the man gasped. Lying across the window sill like a pale wedge of moonbeam was the arm of a woman.

With almost superhuman strength he sprang toward the vine and climbed to the window ledge.

He drew himself within the room and picked up the girl tenderly.

Being without resources of his own and knowing not what to do, he rushed out in the darkened hall and made his way down the stairs with his precious bundle.

Groping his way toward a door he hammered with his feet lest he drop the unconscious girl from his arms.

The door in the hall opened and a very frightened girl in blue kimono peeked out.

"Jack Danvers," she screamed, "have you lost your mind?" She glanced with frightened eyes at her brother. His clothes were dripping, and his face white and stern.

"No! But switch on the light and look at what I found in my room!" He followed her into the room and laid the girl on the couch. It seemed to Edna the action was reluctant. She began gradually to regain consciousness and opened her eyes. They lit first upon the stalwart big man whom she had taken for a burglar, and from him to the girl in the blue kimono.

The latter rushed to Edna's side and gathered her into her arms.

"Edna darling," she asked tenderly, "what in the world have they been doing to you? And why is my brother Jack all soaked and tearing madly through the pitch dark house with you?"

"I took—your brother for a burglar—and emptied the contents of the water jug on him. I am so sorry," she said prettily.

"It is all my fault," he told her quickly. "I was a silly chump to come out to the country at this time of night when the family would all be in bed, but somehow I just wanted to wake up in my own room and hear the birds sing. I often take a fancy of that kind, and when everyone is asleep I sometimes get in by climbing up the vine."

"I never even dreamed of your coming out for the week-end when I put Edna into your room," Mary Danvers was saying.

"It does not seem so terrible, sis," laughed Jack. "Does it to you?" He turned to Edna.

Edna glanced quickly up at him, and the color rushed swiftly up to meet her downcast eyes.

He gave a little helpless shrug of his shoulders that brought an ache to Edna's throat. He threw a glance at his sister and turned to leave the room.

Edna jumped up suddenly and flung herself into his arms. "Of course it did not seem terrible, dear," she cried swiftly. "But everything else has seemed terrible since I broke my engagement to you, and if you still love me—"

There was no need for words.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases.

Mother's Friend is sold at MOTHER'S FRIEND drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

EBEY & HARRISON BROS.

AN INCIDENT AND INTERESTING SEQUEL

We were all sitting on the club-house porch enjoying the cool sea-breeze and sipping—well, one of the men had tea with lots of lemon in it—but the others, their favorite thirst eradicator. Of course, all we women had tea—or lemonade.

We had been telling stories about various curious experiences that had befallen us, when Mrs. Preston gave the following:

"One hot afternoon early in September I was walking up Park avenue, after interviewing one of the most prominent women in 'Society' who was in town getting together her daughter's trousseau—who was to be one of October's early brides.

"I was feeling mighty blue; the pretty frocks, masses of lace lingerie, lustrous satin and priceless lace that would be combined in the wedding gown brought back visions of my own wedding, and my heart grew bitter with the thoughts of years of suffering which followed my own great day."

"Mentally I cursed the man I had married, cursed him for a weak fool, who had allowed a brilliant mind to become so paralyzed with drink that I, his wife, had to take the babies away from their drink-crazed father and leave them in the care of strangers while I worked all day and often until late at night regarding the doings of the rich and great."

"What right had some people to so much money when f had to toil unceasingly for just enough to feed and clothe us decently?"

"It was a long walk back to the office, and I had just one nickel in my purse. Should I spend it for carfare and borrow from some one at the office enough to take me home? Or walk? But it was so hot and I was tired; besides, I hated to borrow.

"There were few people on the street at that hour, but there approached a large, good-looking man, neatly dressed, who stopped in front of me, saying, 'Lady, could you lend me a nickel?' I was so surprised I halted and stared at him.

"I hate to ask you for it, lady," he continued, "but I want to get home to my wife and little girl, and it will take me hours to walk it."

"I inquired if his wife was ill. 'I don't know.' She wasn't well when I left home a week ago," and then, because I still stared at him (my mind could not conceive a big, strong, well-dressed man stopping a woman in the street and asking for 5 cents), he told me that he had been on a spree for a week and had spent his last dollar for a bath so he would be at least decent to go home. 'But I must get home,' he said; 'I must get home to the wife and baby, and I thought you would give me carfare.'

"Opening my purse, I took out my one nickel. 'See,' said I, 'this is all I have. When I give it to you I must walk sixteen blocks back to the office where I work. I have to work to take care of myself and two little children because my husband is a drunkard. Because, when he had a young wife and baby girl he went on sprees and stayed away from home and his business for days at a time. Take this nickel and go home to your wife; but tell her it was a woman who gave you carfare, a woman who will help her when she has to give up her home and go out into the world to work through your intertemperance.'

"That was fifteen years ago. Yesterday, sitting opposite me on the train coming up here, I noticed a very handsome gray-haired man, evidently with his wife, a frail-looking woman with silvery hair and kind, brown eyes.
